

WILL GIVE 7-WEEK DAIRY COURSE HERE

Instruction in Theory and Practice Will Cover All Phases.

STARTS JANUARY 4

Efficiency Proved by Positions Now Held by Former Students.

A course which will prepare a man for a position in any kind of dairy work will open January 4 at the University of Missouri. It is a special course in dairying to last seven weeks. It will cover every phase of the work. The efficiency of the instruction given is shown by the fact that almost all of the men who have taken the course in the past are doing dairy work now. Some are managers of private dairies, some are testers for cow associations, some are butter makers in creameries and others are makers of ice cream. Men who studied dairying in this course have taken the highest prizes in the educational contest held at Columbia.

The course has classes in receiving, handling, grading, testing and pasteurization of milk. Theory and practical churning, the study of the factors influencing over-run, moisture and percentages, the making of ice-cream and marketing are other subjects studied. The student is also given a chance to study the production side of dairying. He is taught the care, handling and feeding of the dairy herd.

At the University of Missouri the student gets his instruction in dairying under actual working conditions. He spends half of his time practicing the best dairy methods in the best-managed dairy in the state.

Christian College

One of the interesting customs of Christian College is the farewell dinner before the holidays. This was held on Tuesday night. The dining room was gay with Christmas colors, each table carrying out its own plan of decorations.

Christmas carols were sung outside the door by a company of students. One table group arrived late, causing much applause as they entered in the characters of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus and a number of children carrying their Christmas toys.

Faculty and officials contributed speeches and stories to the after-dinner program. College songs were sung and everybody cheered for the Christmas holidays.

Students left on afternoon and night trains Wednesday. At Centralia faculty and students found special cars waiting for St. Louis and Kansas City. Students were routed to New Mexico, southern Texas and as far north as Manitoba, Canada.

Dean Elizabeth A. Hall will spend her vacation in Indianapolis and Chicago.

Director Cady Kenney will be in Chicago. Mrs. M. S. Darst, head of the School of Education, will spend part of her vacation in observations and plans of work of the various settlements in St. Louis.

Miss Ruth Eversole of the department of mathematics will spend the holidays in St. Louis.

Miss Jean Harris of the home economics department will be in Rolla, Mo.

Miss Jane Mullenbach of the modern language department will visit in Chicago.

NO VERDICT AFTER 10 HOURS

Norris Fine Trial Reset When Jurors Can't Agree.

Justice D. W. B. Kurtz has set December 21 as the day that Norris Fine will be retried upon the charge of assaulting Lamonte Gardner, better known as "Slats" Logan.

Fine was accused of helping Ben Payne, his brother-in-law, whip Gardner at the Guitler Building December 5 when Payne and Gardner had trouble over stake money on the Missouri-Kansas game. He pleaded not guilty in the Justice Court and was tried yesterday.

The jury failed to agree and after ten hours of deliberation gave up hopes for a decision and reported to Justice Kurtz. Payne was fined $100 and costs in the Justice's Court on the day of the fight.

EXPERT BEWAILS SMALL ARMY

Increase Is Urged by General W. W. Wotherspoon.

By Burton K. Standish. (Written for the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—"Are we prepared to fight?" This question, with interest stirred in it by the war abroad, promises to develop into one of the biggest issues before the country during the next year. The attention of Congress during the present session will be centered on it much of the time.

While the advocates of a bigger and better army and navy are equipping themselves with heavy supplies of data to show that the United States would be hopelessly weak if attacked by one of the world powers, the anti-militarists are arming themselves with information to back up their contention that further preparedness for war would be undesirable and unnecessary.

The pacifists will admit that our preparedness is not to be compared with that of other great nations, but they will argue that with the rest of the world embroiled in the greatest war of history, all our rivals will be so exhausted by fighting that they would not dare to attack us for years to come. This fact, along with the natural defense constituted by our geographical isolation, gives us ample protection, the peace men will contend.

The case of the militarists was voiced by General W. W. Wotherspoon, former chief of staff of the army, in his annual report just issued. He summarized our military situation thus: "We could not defend the Panama Canal. We could not defend the Philippines, or Alaska, or Hawaii, or any other of our insular possessions. Our coast defenses are lamentably inadequate. We could not concentrate a sufficient force to repel an invasion by a first-class fighting power."

Here is the remedy: Raise the regular or standing army from its present strength of 93,000 men to 205,000. Create a first-line of reserves of 500,000, thoroughly equipped and trained. Establish a second reserve of 500,000 men.

General Wotherspoon does not go to the length of advocating compulsory military service, but he says this: "In any scheme to create such a force of mobile troops, we cannot do better than to follow the example of the master minds in military organization for national defense. The policies developed in this direction all include, among others, the primary plan of using the standing army as a school for training of men, who, on graduation from that school, pass into the reserve and constitute the real national military strength."

Many anti-militarists, however, will agree with General Wotherspoon that there is urgent need for reorganization of the state militia. Agitation has been long under way for change in the laws governing the militia which will bring greater reliance upon and an increased control by the national government. Until this is done, authorities declare, the militia cannot be regarded as a dependable branch of our military strength.

The modification of the law proposed is to place the militia under pay of the national government and under binding obligation to serve at its call. This, it is thought, would produce a state of affairs where the militia would be much more thoroughly trained than under existing laws, and to that extent could be more thoroughly depended upon.

R. R. FREIGHT RATES HIKED

Interstate Commerce Commission Grants Increase Asked by Roads.

By United Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission granted the 5 per cent freight rates increase asked by Eastern railroads today. Commissioner Clements stood against the ruling.

The commission made plain that the action was taken in hopes of relieving the commercial stringency. It will not effect rail-lake combination rates. The increase was allowed on joint rates between Eastern, Southeastern and Southwestern points. It is expected the move will relieve business depression.

Has Baptized 1,000.

When, on November 28, at New Salem, he baptized Miss Mattie Ellis, Rev. G. W. Hatcher administered the ordinance to his one thousandth candidate, says the Ashland Bugle. The Rev. Hatcher was ordained a Baptist preacher 42 years ago. His record is about 23 converts a year or one about every sixth sermon.

The Mayor of New York Uses Want Ads

Secures a $5,000 man through the use of a little Want Ad.

As a rule appointments to political jobs go by favor.

When it came to the selection of a third deputy commissioner of charities for the city of New York, Mayor Mitchell and Commissioner Kingsberry departed from all precedent and advertised in the New York newspapers for

BUSINESS MANAGER—35 to 45 years of age, able to superintend large force of employees, direct extensive construction work, organize and direct purchase and distribution of enormous quantity of supplies; only two of marked ability and good experience need apply; salary $5,000 a year; highest references required.

Three hundred replies were received and from them was selected George C. Thomson, who will handle a department which spends $6,000,000 annually.

The city of New York is satisfied. Mr. Thomson is satisfied. You may not get a $5000 job, but you can secure good results either in finding help or positions through the intelligent use of Missouriian want ads.
